UNLISTED WAR OF 1812 ISSUE!

- 2140 181x. E. Benson, York. Partial sheet of 9 notes. Fine, damaged. (Photo) ($750-Up)
1s, 1s, 1s, 2s, 2s/3s, 4s, 5s, 6s,—. The missing 10th note was probably an 8 shilling piece. Payable in New York currency, in Army Bills. Foxing, tears, edge damage, tape on 2nd 1s note over tear. York was the old name for Toronto, upon which Major-General Henry Dearborn launched an attack in 1813, retaining control of the city for some 10 days during which his troops burned the provincial government buildings (without orders), and then returning by way of Niagara. We do not, at the moment, know whether Mr. Benson was a printer in York or whether he served as actual issuer, but the notes were presumably intended for scrip use by the American soldiers (or the Army command) to pay for purchases in the city from Canadians. We have never encountered this issue before, nor does Charlton mention it.

EXCITING NOTGELD COLLECTION2502 1914-1923, Large Beginning Collection of German Notgeld. ($200-Up)

The basic collection is concentrated on the circulating denominations from 1 Pfennig to 1 Mark, mostly issued during WWI itself and down until about 1922 when inflation made the smaller notes practically useless. After going through most of the notes, we would estimate that there are something like 4500 different ones, including many complete sets, and the actual number of different issues may be even higher. Then, there are many larger groups of duplicates, in packets and blocks, numbering hundreds of pieces each of certain notes and from 50 to 100 of many others. The basic series includes a broad selection of the small notes on cardboard (1-25 Pfennigs) among which we notes 2, 3, 15, 20, 30, 70, 90, 99 Pfennig notes as well as the more usual denominations. As is almost always the case, many of the non-duplicated notes are circulated (they were, after all, designed to do just that!), while the sets, packets, etc., are mostly AU-Unc. The basic collection also includes a variety of the higher denomination 1918-1922 notes, but very few of the common 1923 inflation issues. Overall it is the largest and most varied such starter collection we have seen offered since your cataloguer's own collection of some 6,000 different was sold by NASCA a couple of years ago. The total count is some 17,000 pieces.

While we are unable to guarantee the veracity of this statement, it is interesting to note that neither the London, Thomas, or other Gibbons sales contained an example.

The following three lots consist of the original Waterlow & Sons art work for the 1911 $10, 1931 $10, and the 1930 $500 notes of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia & China. The "notes" are actual size and consist of actual machine engraved borders, counters, and rosettes, hand-drawn denominations and vignettes, and hand lettering, all pasted together to show what the notes would look like when issued. The notes are sunk on thick stiff boards which bear hand written approvals and dates, and the Waterlow & Sons specimen seal. The boards are filthy, but the notes are clean, bright, and exquisitely beautiful. All (obviously) are unique.

- 2722 Late Piedmont issues. 2 Pcs. ($100-Up)
 1 September 1799. 50 Lire. EF+, light center fold. 200 Lire. VF, badly split down the vertical center fold and aging with 2 rounded corners. Both notes have embossed seals of Carlo-Emanuel IV, the paper being watermarked with his monogram within a sunburst. The vignettes also depict that sovereign's bust being adored by Minerva and by Fame. Carlo Emmanuel IV and his brother Victorio Emanuel I were run out of Piedmont for the last time by the French in 1802. When Victorio Emanuel made his comeback in 1814, in the style of the Bourbons, who had learned nothing and forgotten nothing, he was determined to turn back the clock. In a series of mind-boggling decrees he annihilated all laws, decrees, judicial proceedings and other public acts (including marriages!) since his departure; all officers civil and military were not only reduced to the ranks they had held in 1802 but were compelled to resume to use of the old uniforms, complete with powdered wigs! Under these circumstances, the patience of his usually good-humored subjects was rapidly exhausted and a revolt broke out in 1821 that could only be suppressed by Austrian intervention. Even the reactionary Metternick thought that it was time for Victorio Emmanuel I to go and the King abdicated at the end of 1821.

- 2725 BANCA ITALO-GERMANICA. 20 Lire. 187. Abt VF, unissued remainder with 2 punch holes. ($180-Up)
 7¼ x 5¼ inches, with a fancy back, orange in the center, blue on the sides. The note has the imprint of Bradbury, Wilkinson of London and depicts the Castel Sant Angelo (Hadrian's tomb) and a Rhineland castle. The watermark has a fancy grill and the name of the Bank and "ROMA" within it.
 The Italian German-Bank has its origins in the Triple Alliance of 1879 between Germany, Austria, and Italy. Italy's adherence to this arrangement was motivated by a quarrel with the Pope over his lost territories (the Germans were in the middle of the Anti-Catholic Kulturkampf) by annoyance with French interception of Italian ambitions in Tunisia (leading to a French protectorate of that territory in 1881) and by a pressing need for money, which the Germans were in a position to provide. The financial part of the scheme never got off the ground and the alliance proved a dead letter 35 years later.
- 2726 250 Lire. 187. SPECIMEN (so stamped twice in purple) by Bradbury, Wilkinson of London with 3 punch holes at the bottom and massive thin spots in the tab at left where the note was evidently mounted and crudely removed; otherwise EF. (Photo) ($200-Up)

Giacomo. Crudely primed on low grade blue paper and dated 1863. Tattered margins. This piece measures 16½ x 12". An interesting bit of Italian financial memorabilia VG.

ITALIAN MINI ASSEGNI

During the 1975-80 period, large quantities of notes in denominations from 50 Lire to 300 Lire were emitted by various banks—e.g., Banco di Napoli. The notes were issued to, and bore the names of, commercial customers of the bank, so they could make change in day to day transactions. Since the Rome Mint was experiencing severe labor trouble, and was incapable of meeting the demand for small change, the amount of coinage in circulation had dipped as low as 40c per person.

As the Government was reluctant to issue even 500 lire notes as it had done even into the mid-1960's, private enterprise had to step in. Although the resulting "Mini-Assegni" notes had no legal tender status, and were seldom accepted more than 50 or 60 miles from their place of issue, they adequately eased the crises at the time, and form an active and interesting collector field today. The major reference work in the field is Catalogo Unificato Dei Mini-Assegni by Edizioni Alfa, published in Italy in 1977.

NICARAGUA

Rare William Walker Military Scrip Note

- 2988 $25. (P-A1.) July 29, 1856. Abt. VF. (Photo) ($1000-Up)
No. 295, parable to N. Farrell, signed by J. Ferrer as Minister of Hacienda (Treasury) registered by Rogers and signed by Wm. Walker as "President of the Republic." Endorsed on the back by Farrell who made his mark (Dec. 21, 1856 at Virgin Bay) with 2 witnesses. The back is soiled, there are fold splits and edge chinks. The embossed seal of the republic is flat. Printed by the E. Nicaraguense Print. which Walker edited! William Walker, a doctor, lawyer, and newspaper editor was headed for the California Gold Rush in 1850 when his violent pro-slavery views managed to overcome his more sensible, intelligent urges. At the head of a small private army he began a series of invasions, beginning with Mexico in 1853. Although all failed, his invasion of Nicaragua in 1856 resulted in his being inaugurated President of Nicaragua before being driven out. Walker's most serious mistake was his attack on Honduras, resulting in his capture and execution in 1860. The Military Scrip Notes issued by Walker in Nicaragua are all very rare. This is the Pick Plate Note, last appearing in NASCA's George Thomas Sale, May 28, 1980.

Watermarked with crown over Britannia vignette on laid paper. There are extensive notes written on the back "Dundee 17 Dec. 1802" etc. saying "This is one of the notes referred to in our separate declarations emitted before Baillee Thos Ball of This date" Signed by Webster, Horice and Ball and Bailee. Separate endorsement of a like tenor made in Edinburgh 20 Dec 1802, when this item is referred to as one of twelve pieces. These circumstances suggest, but do not prove, that this note is a counterfeit as the only other reason for litigation would be those arising from the bankruptcy of the British Linen Company, which did not occur. The note has an embossed seal at the right with the name of the firm and a seated Britannia.

 These notes were put out in World II, when Thomas de la Rue, the usual printer of Thai notes, found itself in the position all bank note firms dread, that of being in the middle when the domicile nation (Great Britain) and a client Nation (Thailand) are at war. (1942). The British authorities on receipt of Thailand's enforced Declaration of War prepared the wide range of measures such a state of affairs entails, including the seizure of the currency plates with an eye on a possible counterfeiting operation. But de la Rue, anticipating this and its disastrous effect on all its foreign customers, took prompt and drastic measure within minutes of the War announcement. The plates, dies, etc. were immediately consigned to the melting pot, much to the annoyance of the British Government. It is only recently that Thailand has created its own note printing operation, a more sophisticated one by far than the Map Department which did these notes.

 A virtually unknown denomination in the rare Third Series. Both Pick and Schwan/Boling list the 3 Pence as "Unconfirmed," and our con-signor states he knows of one other. We know of no others. This is a decent, undamaged example; the folds are visible mainly on the back, and there are no pinholes, tears, etc.
- 3719 6 Pence. (S/B-42, P-M25.) Third Series. Unc. ($50-Up)
 A choice example of the only available and reasonably-priced denomination in the Third Series.
- 3720 50 Groschen. (S/B 56.) Specimen. Unc., Stains. ($20-Up)

 State of siege note (one of 6000 issued) black on white with a horizontal fold through the signature block.
 St. Hubert lies to the west of Bastogne in Belgian Luxemburg. The town must have been occupied in August 1914 so that the issue of such a note under the Belgian mobilization law of August 4, 1914, must not have sat any too well with the Germans.

In any case all notes of the bank are rare and this is the first 1882 sheet, partial or otherwise, that we have seen.

MANCHURIAN COLLECTION

- 3777 1921-1929. Album of 15 Notes. ($500-Up)

A printed, paper-cover album, with general introduction and specific comments (all in Chinese) for 15 banknotes which had legal circulation in central Manchuria (none listed in Pick!) All are punch cancelled and all are overprinted in red and/or black by the Central Bank of Manchukuo in 1932. Pick mentions that this Bank was formed in 1932 by a merger of the Fengtien Provincial Bank, Frontier Bank, Heilungkiang Provincial Bank, and Kirin Provincial Bank, and his #J120-123 are overprints by the new Bank on old notes of the Provincial Bank of the Three Eastern Provinces (using the full Bank name, we presume). The notes here are earlier, and presumably were temporary notes for use until the new, fully overprinted ones could be prepared. The overprint is basically the same two Chinese characters that appear at upper left and upper right fields on the illustrated example of J121, but on these notes they alone are overprinted, and are together in the center. None of these notes are Specimens; several were well circulated prior to (and after?) being overprinted. Notes include: Provincial Bank of the 3 Eastern Provinces, 100 Yuan, 11/1929, red, AU (P-J123 with emergency O/P?); same bank, $50, 1.1.1924, green/brown, AU; Bank of Manchuria (and same name in Russian!), 10 Yuan, Harbin branch, 7/1921, purple, AU; Frontier Bank, 10 Yuan, 1.7.1925, 3 Eastern Provinces branch, blue, Fine; same, 10 Yuan, 1.7.1925, Mukden branch, green, F-VF; same, 10 Yuan, Harbin branch, 1.7.1925, blue, Fine; Kungtsi Bank of Fengtien, 100 Coppers, 1922, black/green, VG; Kirin Yung Heng Provincial Bank, $10 Big Money, 1926, green, AU; same, 10 Yuan, 1.12.1923, Harbin branch, purple/green, VG-F; same, 10 Yuan, ND (1920's), blue, Fair with tape repaired fold lines on back; same, 50 Coppers, vertical format, local printing, red, ND, AU; The Kwang Sing Company, $10 Big Money, 1.11.1924, Heilungchiang branch, red/blue, VG; another, as last; same, $10 Bond, 1.12.1924, green-blue/brown, VG; same, 100 String, 1929, vertical format, blue & violet/red, possibly local printing, Good. All are glued down at top and usually at one point of bottom onto the paper pages. A very interesting and very rare group of notes of extremely limited circulation time - the first of any of these that we have seen.

These latter notes appeared in NASCA's Thomas Sale in 1980 (though the set included fewer denominations) and have not, to the best of our knowledge, appeared elsewhere at auction since then.

He gave similar performances in Hanover and Ireland where he passed himself off as German or Irish. The English, who had seen him first, and had him for years, were not impressed.
